Definitions

❖ Definition of justice-impacted youth

A juvenile justice impacted youth is a person who was arrested, detained, or referred to probation as a youth.

❖ What is the age range this grant can serve?

Youth may now be detained in juvenile detention facilities in California up to the age of 25. The college/district may serve any aged youth in a detention facility. Students who were formerly juvenile justice-impacted (as defined as a student who has ever been arrested, detained, or referred to probation as a youth) may be served at any age on-campus.
