A gathering of students, staff and special guests on Feb. 23 celebrated the opening of Hartnell's new Umoja Village in room 3 of Merrill Hall, a place where Black students and the college community can gather to meet, discuss, socialize and learn.

Hartnell teams share equity work during 2 nationwide presentations

Work by Hartnell faculty to implement equity-minded teaching practices that serve students of differing abilities, ethnicities and ages was twice presented to nationwide higher education audiences in recent weeks. The first presentation was at the Feb. 15 Achieving the Dream Conference, and the second was a Feb. 22 webinar hosted by student-learning software developer eLumen. Both drew more than 120 online viewers.

The Achieving the Dream presentation, titled "Faculty Lead Institutional Change: A Focus on Equity," included Hartnell's Student Success and Equity Rubric, an eLumen data load used for learning outcome assessment, a cultural curriculum audit and efforts to prioritize equity-based resource requests in the Program Planning and Assessment (PPA) process. Presenters were Nina Vazquez, Dr. Guy Hanna, Dave Beymer and Cheryl O'Donnell, who are members of four Academic Senate committees: the Student Success and Equity Committee (SS&E), the Outcomes and Assessment Committee, the Curriculum Committee and the PPA team. Achieving the Dream is a nonprofit organization focused on evidence-based student success strategies for community college students.

In the second presentation, titled "Equity Rubric for Student Success", SS&E committee members Nina Vazquez and Janet Flores presented the five dimensions of the rubric, explaining how the rubric was developed and sharing examples of how to incorporate its five dimensions into teaching practices. Comments in the chat expressed strong interest in the work of the committee, and immediately following, two colleges requested additional presentations.

Student mental telehealth service supplements on-campus counseling

TimelyCare, a new 24/7 mental telehealth service launched on Feb. 22 will allow Hartnell students to talk to a licensed provider from their smartphone or any web-enabled device within minutes, around the clock. Licensed providers are available to offer mental health support via phone or secure video chats.

These new services are intended to supplement, not replace, the opportunity to meet with a professional therapist through Hartnell's Crisis Counseling & Emotional Wellness Services, either in-person or virtually.

The following free services are now available through TimelyCare: On-demand access to a mental health professional to talk about anything at anytime, scheduled options to speak to a licensed counselor (up to 12 visits per year), psychiatric services by referral, health coaching on things like nutrition and sleep issues, access to low- or reduced-cost community basic needs services and group sessions in meditation, yoga and specialized discussions.

Cash for College workshop draws 83 for financial aid help and info

A “Cash for College” informational event presented on Feb. 26 by Hartnell’s Financial Aid team was attended by 83 students and parents who received help completing financial aid applications and learning about scholarship opportunities.

The event from 8-11 a.m. in Building E on Main Campus was held in person for the first time since 2020, giving participants the opportunity to attend presentations on the FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid) and CADAA (California Dream Act Application), as well as receive one-on-one assistance with completing the applications, in both English and Spanish.

It was open to Hartnell students, employee families and the public, regardless of what college a student plans to attend in 2022-23. The timing was especially urgent because federal and state financial aid applications for the 2022-23 academic year are due March 2, as are applications for Hartnell scholarships.

“Having the opportunity to serve our students in person felt great,” said Director of Financial Aid Jessica Tovar. “FA staff truly showed our first core value at Hartnell: ‘Students First.’ I want to give a big thank you to Michaela Bridges, Ramon Serrano, Kevin Ow and our student ambassadors for their hard work, as well as financial aid staff and our enrollment specialist.”
