Gala for the Arts delivers a good time among friends

The 11th Annual Gala for the Arts was on Saturday, November 19, 2016 at 5:30 p.m. and it delivered on its promise of glamour, entertainment, festive atmosphere, food, drinks, and more! Since we have outgrown the tent, the Gala took place in our new STEM Center Building. This year’s theme of Black and White theme was seen throughout the building and its décor.

More than 400 guests came to have a good time. The Gala features a scrumptious strolling dinner by Michael's Catering, cocktails by Dubbers, a fantastic silent auction, and an outstanding musical performance of Nice Work If You Can Get It at The Western Stage Mainstage Theater. Everyone in the audience enjoyed this musical comedy; laughter was rampant even after the production was over. Before the play began, Chair of the Council for the Arts and Foundation Board Member, Nick Pasculli introduced student Damian Mercado who spoke of the impact Hartnell and Western Stage have had in helping him overcome obstacles and stay centered. It was an emotional presentation. Trustees Manuel Osorio, Candi DePauw, and Pat Donohue were in attendance to the evening! Over $40,000 were raised and all proceeds of this event go to support the capital campaign for the Center for Performing Arts at Hartnell College. My congratulations to the Gala for the Arts Committee headed by Dottie Massey and to the Hartnell College Foundation staff for another great fundraiser. We thank all of the sponsors and donors who help us continue to grow leaders and professionals in the arts.

Annual Conference for the Community College Facility Coalition

Last week, November 14-16, 2016, I attended the Annual Conference for the Community College Facility Coalition (CCFC), I am proud to serve as the Chair of the Board of Directors for a 3rd term. This year’s conference was particularly rewarding because of the important role that CCFC played in the passage of Proposition 51, The California Public School Facility Bonds Initiative. CCFC joined with CASH (Coalition for Adequate School Housing) - the K-12 equivalent to CCFC, to promote and advocate for the passage of Prop 51. A total of $10 million was raised for the campaign. Prop 51 provides a total of $9 billion for facilities, $7 billion for K-12, and $2 billion for community colleges. The conference was a huge success with a 32% increase in attendance over the last 2 years. Approximately 450 private and public facilities professional attended this year. It was an honor for me to be a part of recognizing award-winning construction projects from community colleges around the state on behalf of CCFC. In addition, we awarded the second Paul Holmes Facilities Leadership Achievement Award. This year’s recipient was Fred Harris, Vice President of Administrative Services at Gavilan College. Fred was recognized for his leadership as Assistant Vice Chancellor for Facilities Planning during his tenure in the Chancellor’s Office.

Hartnell presents two workshops at CCLC Annual Convention

Hartnell College continues to be recognized for innovation and effectiveness by being selected to present at state and national conferences. On November 17-19, 2016, I along with colleagues attended the Annual Convention for the Community College League of California. We presented two workshops; here are the descriptions and presenters:

Transforming Our Colleges, Promoting Our Communities
Bringing together decades of leadership experience, the panelists will share story-driven examples to shed light on how to effect transformative change and lead to desired results. Transformational leadership patterns will be reviewed, providing guidelines for change facilitation. The audience will engage in interactive exercises to think through needed transformations at their own colleges.

Presenters:
Celine Pinet, Dean, Academic Affairs, Hartnell College; Willard Lewallen, Superintendent/President, Hartnell College; Alfred Konuwa, Vice President, Academic & Student Services, Woodland Community College; Victoria Hindes, West Valley College

CSin3: Three-Year Bachelor’s Degree Program in Computer Science
Hartnell College and California State University, Monterey Bay collaborated to develop a cohort-based, 3-year Bachelor’s Degree Program in Computer Science. The first cohort graduated in May 2016 and three cohorts are in progress. The two colleges will share strategies, successes, practices, and lessons learned from the journey that resulted in a $5 million innovation award.

Presenters
Willard Lewallen, Superintendent/President, Hartnell College; Bonnie Irwin, Provost & Vice President for Academic Affairs, California State University, Monterey Bay

Local Facilities Bond Measures around the state for CCDs
In the past election, there were 166 K-12 and CCD bonds approved, with an approval rate of 90.2%. That is amazing support for education. There were 14 CCD local bonds and one parcel tax on the ballot; all but two of the bonds passed. The Shasta-Tehama-Trinity was very close and could pass with additional votes currently being counted. We thank the voters in the Hartnell CCD for the passage of Measure T; your support will help support generations to come.
Professor participates in important child education conference

Professor Dr. Mayra Almodovar presented at the Annual Conference of the National Association for the Education of Young Children, in the track of “Grandes Comienzos,” meaning "Great Beginnings." It focused on children who are English learners and having access to high-quality programs. She had two sessions: Diseñando Casas Para los Tres Cerditos: el rol de la integración de las artes en la enseñanza de STEM (Designing houses for the three little pigs), about the role of art when teaching STEM; and Niños jugando con muñecas! Qué hago? Roles de género en la prescolaridad y las implicaciones en la sala de clase (A boy playing with dolls! What can I do? Gender roles in early childhood classrooms). Both talks were informative, impactful, and eye opening.

Mental Health Certification Training

On Friday, November 18, 2016 a second round of training for Mental Health First Aid was completed. There were about 25 in attendance, which included students, staff, faculty and community members. The Mental Health First Aid was led by DSPS Director Amy Lehman and Trainer Alicia Edelen. The course is aimed to help individuals identify, understand, and respond to signs of mental illness and substance abuse disorders. The training gives participants the skills they need to reach out and provide initial help and support to students, colleagues, or family members who may be developing a mental health problem or experiencing a crisis. More information about the course is available here: http://www.mentalhealthfirstaid.org/cs/about/

HEP BBQ Fundraiser a Success

In an effort to offset the increasing costs of running the program, and to allow students more flexibility in the celebration of their accomplishments, HEP held its first ever BBQ fundraiser on November 6, 2016 at the Salinas Sports Complex. As a federally funded program HEP has a fixed budget during a 5-year performance period. The allocation amount is not adjustable to reflect increases in salaries, benefits, testing fees etc. In addition, use of funds is restricted to allowable, allocable, and reasonable expenses as determined by the regulatory guidance. At the BBQ, our students and staff sold 262 plates through pre-sale, and an additional 69 the day of, for a total of 331 plates! Each plate included a ½ chicken, beans, salad, bread roll, and water. Our efforts brought in $2,100 in profit to support our end of year HEP Recognition Ceremony. None of this would have been possible without the generosity of various donors: MP Express (tickets), Roger Monroe III (wood), retired educator John Macias (BBQ pit), Mann Packing (salad), Christopher’s Journey and the Mena family (chicken grilling expertise), and HEP staff and students (time and effort). Their unwavering dedication and passion for empowerment through education is evident in their unofficial mantra “Todo por HEP” (Anything for HEP). And of course, all those individuals who showed their support through the purchase of a plate! The goal is to hold at least one major fundraiser per semester. So if you missed out this time around, you will have another opportunity this spring. On behalf of the HEP staff and Graduating Class of 2017, please accept our genuine gratitude for your generosity and continued support!

Running back Sherrod Hawkes had 23 carries for 107 yards and a touchdown, but that was not enough for the Panthers. They dropped their regular-season finale, losing in the game’s waning seconds. They finish 6-4 overall, 4-2 in the Golden Coast Conference. Quarterback Dorrion Isaak, who suffered an elbow injury the week prior, entered the game in the second half and was 4-of-8 passing for 58 yards with one touchdown and one interception. Grow Your Own Pet Microbe – an introduction to Ag terminology

Agricultural Science Faculty, Laura Miles and Lab Technician Meaghan Black, dazzled grades 5-10 young women as they participated in Grow Your Own Pet Microbe. The workshops were part of the Expanding Your Horizon (EYH) event on Saturday, November 19, 2016 organized by the Lyceum of Monterey County. The participants experienced Fluoresce Under a Black Light, and See Something Disappear, but Don’t Drink the Kool-Aid as they explored and applied techniques used in agriculture and food safety industry laboratories.

ABTI and Produce Safety Alliance: Train the Trainer Workshop

The Food Safety Modernization Act signed into law in 2011 by President Obama now features five Rules (with more to come). On Thursday and Friday of last week, the Agricultural Business and Technology Institute, in collaboration with Western Growers Association, hosted a train-the-trainer workshop for the most recent: Produce Rule. One critical component of this rule is that (nearly) all farms must have on staff (or via close consultancy relationship) an individual who has produce safety training as detailed by the Food and Drug Administration. This two-day workshop is the first step in having trainers qualified to teach to the Produce Rule. Approximately 60 produce industry experts, including Hartnell students and members of our food safety industry advisory board, participated in the training taught by Dr. Trevor Suslow (UC Davis), Dr. Elizabeth Bihn (Cornell University), Donna Marie Pahl (Produce Safety Alliance), and Barb Fick (Produce Safety Alliance). Our food safety program is pleased to be on the leading edge of this national training initiative.

ABTI and United Fresh: Food Safety Preventive Controls Workshop

Monday - Wednesday of last week featured a multi-day produce industry training on one of the Food Safety Modernization Act rules: Preventive Controls for Human Foods. This particular workshop was unique in that it applied directly to the fresh produce industry and featured specific working case studies for packinghouses. The case studies are the result of a national collaboration of fresh produce experts (including several members of the Hartnell Food Safety Industry Advisory Committee and our own, Director, Dr. Susan Pheasant) to provide practical, real life examples upon which to apply and learn the Preventive Controls rule.

Approximately 40 produce industry experts, including members of our Food Safety Industry Advisory Board, participated in the training taught by Dr. David Gombas (United Fresh VP Science and Technology, retired), Kathy Gombas (Center for Food Safety and Nutrition, Food and Drug Administration, retired), and Dr. Susan Pheasant (Hartnell Ag Institute). Our food safety program is diligently striving to be on the leading edge of these national training initiatives and to make them available and accessible to our students and industry partners.

Thank you, Taylor Farms!

Students in Nick Pasculli’s Ag Careers Class had the honor of meeting a number of key employees at the Taylor Farms headquarters in Old Town Salinas. The class, along with Ag Institute Director Dr. Susan Pheasant, toured the Taylor Farms building (including a spontaneous visit with Mark Campion – President – Taylor Farms Retail) and then convened for Q & A in the “Curious Classroom.” The evening included presentations by Debi Montoya (VP Human Resources), Josh Roberts (Director of Ag Operations - Retail), Josh Tamayo (food safety), Denise Waltrip (Director of Finance), Angie McGrew (Customer Care - Retail), and Juanita Machuca (Sales); each shared about their first job, their pathway to Taylor Farms, and their current job within. The students received advice from the experts to help guide them to their academic and career pursuits.
